PARIS, BOURBON COUNTY, KENTUCKY: TUESDAY, AUGUST 14, 1883.

NO. 153.

THE Richmond fair commences to-day.

THERE'S a good book-agent loose in the city.

THE Sharpsburg fair is said to have been a success.

NORTHERN BANK stock sold yesterday at 7.25 per share.

MART BOWLES says that 400 barrels of water struck him at the circus.

LOOK at the date on the margin of your paper, just for curiosity, if nothing else.

CONDUCTOR WINSTON reports an unusually large passenger-traffic over the K. C. extension.

A CYNTHIANA lady has written for a copy of the News containing the "black advertisement."

THIRTY new subscribers were added to the News last week—one of whom was for 30 years.

OLD SWEENEY baptised several converts at Old Union yesterday evening, and the setting still continues.

A COUNTERFEITER was arrested at Danville last week, for passing spurious gold in the fair grounds.

BORR KNOX shot and killed Tom Gill at Kuman, Ky., for refusing to lend him his gun. Both are colored.

DOYLES blacksmith shop, at the corner of Main and old Georgetown road, is Saturday to Mr. Doyle, for $5,000.

MURPHY SAUNDERS, of Fayette county, has stacks of hay burned by boys who were eating and burning bees nests.

THE new eight-driver-wheels locomotive the K. C. road pulled 65 freight cars from place to Stanford, one day last week.

SIX new passenger coaches now being delivered by the K. C. road, cost $5,000 each, are perfect beauties in every respect.

THE execution of the Presbyterian Church to the Blue Licks, left this morning with a fair number of excursionists.

THE girl in Harrison county, aged fifteen years, gave birth to a child recently. Both mother and child have since died.

THE 1830 lot of Henry L. was burned in the district, which was of public sale Friday, was taken down.

THE circus will exhibit here on Saturday. Those who lost their hats at the last one will proceed to get them up by that time.

THE car-loads of passengers from the camp-meeting Sunday, and the trains left on time in a moderately good condition. The meeting closed yesterday, being the most successful one locally and in attendance in its existence.

THE grand stand of our fair grounds is in the distance like a snow bank, and who have been out there say that it is all adapted to steeplechases. Now that all can get a horse will want to bring so that he can see the amphitheatre.

THE kind of "Huckleberry Hell" in the stered glen near the Parks' Hill grounds, where they sell elder, corn-cakes, run cap guns, shake necks, &c. Every three steps a broken piece of wood contained brandy broken, the way of wickedness.

THE Frankfort Christian Church is to new spire and a chime of bells. The will be one hundred and thirty-two feet high. It will be covered with slate, and substantially made, like that on St. Paul's in Richmond Va., which is said to be the tallest in the United States.

THE PHILLIPS, a farmer from Mason, Ky., Kentucky, was in the Vine-Street house last night drunk and creating a racket. He had a big revolver, and the Watchman Ehret finally arrested and locked him up in Central Station, on charge of carrying concealed weapons.

THE people in Paris have so far failed to learn that the six-coach train from the station getting on the little boat-tail that comes from Lexington and goes to Paris. People who are too lazy to read the paper, should stay away from the fair and quit asking fool questions.

THE man away with a buggy Saturday containing "Bud" Hill, his sister and her lady friend from Lexington, were standing in the middle of Main street, when a horse, which was frightened by a dog, ran up to the buggy and knocked off its feet, and the Lexington heroically leaped forward, gathering the lines and checked the fleeing horse, as thrown out and was slightly injured.

THE new bridge-builder, was from the Townsend bridge, to a fifty feet below and bruised to a jelly, by a guy rope of a derelict, and Geo. Lilly received a severe blow on his shoulder by an iron falling from the Keller reports but one bone in Davis' body (at the elbow joint), and he will get well.

BILL JOHNSON and Ben Coons, colored coons, were held over for further trial, for beating and confederating together under the Ku-Klux act, in whipping that colored Democratic patriot on the night of the election.

Sheriff Armstrong sold $1,150 worth of personalty of Abraham Barton's estate at Millersburg, Saturday. He thinks that after all debts are paid, that not over $7,000 will be left for distribution among the heirs.

Yesterday afternoon a colored boy in Lexington, another one a nigger that he could jump across the railroad in front of conductor Henry Green's train, which was but a few feet away. The jump was made and the boy fell with his neck across the rail just in time to get his head cut clear off.

THE Kimball House block at Atlanta burned Sunday, with a total loss of $1,000,000. The hotel cost $600,000, and the furniture $125,000; insurance only $80,000. The fire is reported to have been incendiary. The Gate City Bank building was wiped out by the flames, and the vaults contain $500,000, which may prove a total loss.

FIFTY-FIVE counties heard from officially, give Knott 30,441 majority against 28,635 for Blackburn in the same counties in 1878—a clear gain of 1,786. The remaining forty-five counties in 1878 gave a Democratic majority of 15,202. So, should there be no further gain, Knott's majority in the State will exceed 45,000, as the Courier-Journal predicted on the night of the election.

"THE PICTORIAL BIBLE COMMENTATOR," by Ingram Cobbin, is said by competent judges of such matters to be the best help to a better understanding of the Bible that has ever been offered to the people. Bible readers, students, teachers, Sunday-school superintendents and ministers, all testify to its merit. W. D. Lambuth, agent for this book in this county, is the prize student at the State College this year, he bearing off Governor Blackburn's medal offered for "highest excellence in studies and conduct." His standing address is Lexington, Ky.

THE Two Circuses.

The vaunting and acrobatic performances of Nathans & Co.'s circus were good. The few cages of animals needed turning loose in a forest to cut down unnecessary expenses. The menagerie of O'Brien's was larger and better. The circus performance was tip-top—particularly the vaunting and acrobatic performances. The employees of O'Brien's were a sober, orderly and manly set of fellows, and were much praised by our citizens for their deportment in saving the distressed women and children from the fallen tents and the drenching storm.

Old Dan Rice.

OLD Dan Rice, the oldest legitimate circus man in the world, was in Cynthiana with his show, and called at the Democrat's office. He informed us that his son-in-law, Charles Reid, a Mayville boy, is now performing his unequalled feats of horsemanship in Copenhagen, Denmark, at $20 a week. Mr. Rice says he trained the elephant in the circus, and speaking of about the elephant he said no doubt Barnum's great elephant, Jumbo, was a great curiosity, as a large man could walk erect between the monster's legs. There is only one larger in the world, and that one is owned by the Russian Government. Jumbo was bought by Barnum for $7,000. He is perfectly docile. Rice has been in every country on the globe, and says he feels at home nowhere more than in Kentucky. He started in the show business at Galena, Ill., where General Grant once worked for him at fifty cents a day. (Cynthiana Democrat.)

John O'Brien's Circus Tribulations.

O'BRIEN'S circus train collided with a freight train at Cunningham, Saturday morning, which caused the manager to cancel his engagement at Richmond. Two grain cars were up-ended and the cow-catchers of the two engines being smashed, was about all of the damage. Mr. O'Brien put in most of the day here Saturday footing up his losses real and imaginary, with a view of bringing suit against the K. C. road for damages. He will allege in his petition that had he been landed here two hours earlier Friday morning, his afternoon's performance would have been correspondingly earlier in the afternoon, and would have been over before the storm struck the tents, which would have been lowered for the contingency. He will also petition for damages by loss of the two engagements at Richmond, alleging that his train was unnecessarily detained here and a collision was brought about which could have been averted. At the time of our interview with treasurer Scattergood, the amount of damages had not been footed up, but a rough estimate by an outsider standing by, suggested that about $5,000 would cover the losses entire.

UNDER THE TENTS, IN A SMALL FLOOD!

John O'Brien's Circus Tents Blown Down, and 2,500 Men, Women and Children Crawled out in a Half Drowned Condition into a Blinding Rain Storm.

Friday afternoon at half past four o'clock, a small cyclone accompanied by torrents of rain and hail struck the tents of John O'Brien's circus during the latter part of the performance, and the huge tents of the circus, menagerie and all the side shows were blown flat to the ground. The performance was being witnessed by about 2,500 people, and as if by miraculous powers, all escaped with their lives, but few sustained serious injuries. Mrs. Dr. Hurst, of Millersburg, who occupied a reserved seat beside her husband and little son, sustained the injury of a broken limb—both bones being fractured just above the ankle. Her little son who was thought to have been seriously injured, escaped almost unhurt, but was alarmed almost to death. Constable James M. Taylor, who was protecting some lady and her child, was struck on the left shoulder by a falling tent pole and was severely bruised, as was also Mayor W. M. Purnell on the right leg. Twenty or thirty others sustained small cuts and bruises, and hundreds lost hats, bonnets, parasols and other paraphernalia.

When the first few gusts of wind came up, a panic was about to take place, but by the coolness of the ringmaster, who ordered the frightened ones to be seated, quiet once more reigned. Then for a few minutes the rain fell in torrents, and all danger was thought to have been over, and when the multitude stood huddled here and there to avoid the perfect sheet of rain pouring in through the holes and open seams of the tent, all at once a whirling funnel-shaped gust of wind struck the tents, the guy ropes snapped and down came the whole business in less than half a minute. During the intense drenchings of the tents preceding the fall, all eyes were riveted on the huge center-poles, and were held there until the ropes snapped, and fortunately were avoided in the fall by the excited, panic-stricken masses.

After the fall of the tents, holes were quickly cut in a number of places and the smothering masses of half-drowned humanity cautiously wended their way out—the hundreds of children being rescued from a watery, crushed and smothering condition by the gallant showmen (who did their whole duty) and friends from the outside.

The wails of the weeping and shrieks of the terrified mingled with the roar of the storm, the pelting of the hail and rain, made it an appalling, heart-sickening scene calculated to invade the hearts of the most hardened with thoughts with terror, and melt them with thoughts and acts of kindness—and this was the case, too, for in no instance was anyone found lacking in doing his whole duty, who could wield a strong arm.

CALAMITY NOTES.

Baby Speakes said: "Mamma, do all circuses do that way?"

Just as sheriff Holladay was about to serve a garnishee on O'Brien, down came the tent on him and stopped the process.

One center pole knocked the hats off of Dr. Noah Moore and Miss Lucy Speakes, and missed the News gang only three feet.

In the panic it was thought that a cage of monkeys had got loose, but on closer examination it was found to be only a cage of peaceful duds.

Some frantic-stricken women actually knelt in prayer under wagons, and asked the safe deliverance of friends from under the fallen tents.

Press Campbell nobly came to the rescue of the drenched and shivering women and children with is omnibus, and delivered two loads of them to their homes free of charge.

The hundreds of children taken from the fallen tents looked like half-drowned rats. One little child of Wm. Hinton's, when taken home to its mother, said "Mama, am I going to die?"

When the fat woman got out from under the tent of the side-show, she laid down in the branch and would have drowned had not some men pulled her out. She was dressed in tights.

The keeper of the large elephant grabbed two children and started out of the wreck, but looked around and saw the elephant following him. He dropped the children and chained the elephant, or perhaps a hundred people would have been tramped upon and killed.

Leroy Smith, of Millersburg, sat beside the fat woman in the side-show to keep the tent from falling on him. He says that she just sat there very coolly and let it come down on her. She ought to have stuck her foot up in the air and formed a new center pole and completed the exhibition.

Mrs. Hugh Bierbower and Mrs. Bob McClelland, Jr., lost their portmanteaus containing $15 or $20 each, but Mrs. McClelland, while sitting under a wagon, recovered hers from a small boy passing by. Mrs. Bierbower has not recovered hers yet. The finder will please leave same at this office.

L. A. Boyd, train dispatcher for the K. C., has arrived here to make his future headquarters.

Dr. Ben Davis has neatly repaired his new drug store and furnished it with handsome oil-cloth counters, desks, drawers, medicine cases, &c., all complete and as pretty as any city store.

DEATHS.

The wife of Wm. Hoover, a shoemaker in the employ of John Klei, of this city, died at her home in Lexington Saturday, and was buried at Millersburg, yesterday.

SCINTILLATIONS.

—Fall millinery will be the next thing to worry about.

Dr. Washburn and wife have arrived here from Ocala, Florida.

—John Stuart was the "Bill Nye" of the camp ground Sunday.

—Mrs. Rabbitt, of Louisville, is visiting relatives in this county.

—Judge Riddle, of Irvine, was putting up his fences at the camp grounds Sunday.

—Misses Minnie and Fannie Hawthorne, of Newport, are visiting friends in this city.

—Mr. Osborne, formerly express agent at this place, is here on a visit from Virginia.

—More gum was chewed Sunday at the camp-meeting than was ever known before.

—Wm. Lowe and wife, of Steubenville, Ohio, are the guests of Henry Hilber and wife.

—Cart-wheel hats made of rough straw, are all the rage for pic-nics, fairs and circuses.

—Mrs. Alex Grant, of Pensacola, Fla., is in on a visit to her brother Charlie Croxton and sisters.

—J. H. Deaver, of this precinct, taught the duds the grand plug hat act at the camp-meeting Sunday.

—The 400 guests at Crab Orchard Springs enjoyed a masked ball Friday night that was unusually successful.

—Mathans & Co.'s dollar-and-a-half beauty chewed gum all the time she sat on top of the chariot in the procession.

—A one-armed man was in the pick-pocket business at Cynthiana during the performance of Nathan's circus.

—It's a great pity but what all of those balloon and Mother Hubbard dresses didn't get taken off in that circus cyclone Friday.

—Misses Cora Long and Lula Sharp, two handsome little Harrison county ladies, are the guests of Misses Ora and Minnie Letton.

—The President and his fellow travelers are all well. Senator Vest and the President took in five creels of trout on their first fishing trip.

—Miss Anna Belle Lee, of Carlisle, was the little belle of the camp Sunday, but that little one with a blue dress on was a heap beller.

—Elder J. S. Sweeney and daughter have returned from Southern Kentucky. Mrs. Sweeney remains at the home of her mother still very ill.

—Prof. J. R. Day, the "soliciting fiend" of the Cincinnati News-Journal, spent Sunday with his wife out at Dr. Noah Moore's, in this precinct.

—Snell Shawhan and Percy Adair, of Shawhan, started to San Francisco, Cal., last week, to attend the Grand Conclave of Knights Templars.

—The same old wall of distress comes from all summer resorts. There are not enough men to go round, and the girls mourn for their escorts because they are not.

—R. Jay Gould, of the Adams Express office, Cincinnati, was the guest of the railroaders, expressmen and telegraphers of this city yesterday, and took in the camp-meeting.

—In the marriage of the Rev. Jos. Martin, of Atlanta, to Mrs. Margaret Glass, of Georgetown, the Cynthiana Democrat says that the groom left a Martin box to live in a Glass house.

—A Kansas woman was upbraiding her husband when a cyclone blew in sight, and, with a sigh of relief, the unhappy man ran into its path and was safely blown into the next county.

—The present season is at its liveliest. The watering-places are in full blast and flirtations booming. Fashion is happy, and even poverty lifts its pinched and faded face in silent gratitude for the beauties of nature.

—Robt. Howe, formerly of Moorefield, Dr. J. McClymonds (formerly of this place) and son, Dr. Bergh's wife and child, and Mrs. Christian, of Athens, Fayette county, all arrived in Kentucky from Ocala, Florida Saturday.

—A dude was seen hastily glancing at a sign in front of a butcher's shop, and then, with a shudder, shut his eyes and skipped across the street. A by-stander looked at the placard by the meat-store and it read, "Brains for sale."

—Dan Rice, who was here with Nathans' circus, says that he recently met and played cards with two of his divorced wives, at his old home town in Pennsylvania. He also said that both have made overtures to marry him again since their separation.

—"Old woman," said a man on a country road, "did you see a bicycle pass here just now?" "No, I did not see any kind of bicycle, mister; but just now I seen a wagon wheel running away with a man. You kin believe it or no. I wouldn't if I hadn't seen it myself."

The Trader, Turfman, Farmer and Sportsman.

The Latonia Trotting Races commence Sept. 15th, and last seven days.

A train killed a sick for Lew Cunningham, on the K. C. extension, which the appraisers have valued at $1,200.

During the Bourbon fair races, pools will be sold every night and morning at the Bourbon House, by a syndicate organized in this city.

An incendiary burned the training stable of J. B. Shockey at the Lexington course Thursday night, and May's Wilkes, Richard Wilkes, Jack Rabbitt, a sorrel colt by Harry Wilkes, and Minnie Wilkes, were valued at from $2,000 to $3,000 each.

Green trotters and pacers have already this season made remarkable records. Among the most notable are Phalias' 2:15 1/2 in the 2:40 class, reaching within a quarter of a second of the fastest time ever made by a stallion; Majolla's 2:17 in a three minute race; Johnson's 2:11 1/2 pacing record and Rich-balls' 2:12 1/2.

An advertisement of the Mayville fair appears in this issue. The catalogue now out show a mistake in the free-for-all and 2:40 classes of trots. The heats are to be three best in five instead of two best in three as published. The premium list is large and attractive, and the management is leaving nothing undone toward making the fair a success.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Condensed and Put into Readable Shape.

DOMESTIC.

A NATIONAL Convention of iron and steel workers in session in Philadelphia on the 7th, adopted resolutions expressing sympathy with the striking telegraphers.

JOE POSTER, colored, who outraged and murdered Mrs. McLaughlin, a white lady, in Natchitoches Parish, La., a short time ago, has been captured. Lynching is threatened.

The Minnesota crop report for the past month contains the following estimates: Wheat 102 per cent.; corn, 87; rye, 97; oats, 98; barley, 96; buckwheat, 96; potatoes, 101; amber sugar-cane, 83, and beans, 96 per cent.

GEO. JEFFRIES, of Smithtown, L. I., is under arrest for kicking and beating a step-child until he killed it.

The receipts at the Sullivan-Slade glove contest were $13,400. Sullivan got $7,000, and Slade $4,000. Slade's manager accounts for the Maori's defeat on the ground that he was too lazy to put himself in proper condition for the contest.

MCPHERSON, the murderer of Cummins, at New York, was hung by vigilantes in the jail-yard at Dayton, W. T., a few nights ago. He protested his innocence.

FORTY-ONE distilling companies were represented at the Distillers' meeting in Louisville on the 8th. A committee was appointed to confer with the committees from other States for the purpose of bringing the whisky trade into united action. A fair distribution of distilling capacity between the several States was favored. If that is found to be impractical an execution of the Lexington pooling resolution was recommended.

The Western Export Association met the Kentucky distillers at Louisville on the 8th, and a resolution was passed providing for the introduction of a relief bill into Congress at the earliest practicable date granting an extension of the bonded period for two years on distilled spirits then in the distilleries or bonded warehouses.

The cotton worm is doing much damage in Texas. It is doubtful whether half a crop will be made.

In Hamburg, Pa., a few nights ago, Oscar Miller, aged eighteen, promanaging with Kate Stambach, aged sixteen, proposed marriage. She refused, and he immediately fired a seven-barreled revolver into his own head, mouth and chest. He may recover.

A CONDUCTOR of the Grand Rapids and Inland Railroad, residing at Grand Rapids, Mich., mistook his wife for a burglar a few nights ago, and shot her. The ball passed entirely through her head, inflicting a wound from which she cannot recover.

A TERRIBLE hail-storm passed down the Nishnabotna valley, near Des Moines, Ia., on the night of the 8th, resulting in the destruction of growing crops and farm property. Near Osceola, Mrs. Lanson was killed and another person wounded. Hail fell to the depth of five feet in places. Trains on the branch of the Rock Island and the main line of the Milwaukee Road were blocked. The path of the storm was four miles wide, and everything was literally destroyed. The loss will probably exceed a half million dollars.

The report telegraphed from Dodge City, Kas., a few days ago, stating that the Texas fever was raging among the cattle there in a malignant form, is declared untrue.

A FIRE at Baltimore on the 8th destroyed the large tinware factory of Matthai, Ingram & Co., together with all the machinery and stock. The fire originated from a gasoline firepot used by a solderer, and spread with such rapidity that nothing whatever was saved, and the hauds had barely time to escape. The loss on machinery and stock is estimated at $75,000, with an insurance of $30,000. Three hundred hands are out of employment. Several small houses were burned.

MICHAEL DANNER, station agent for the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad at Marseilles, Ill., was arrested a few days ago for the alleged embezzlement of funds of the Old Fellows' Benevolent Association, of New York, while serving as its treasurer, ten years ago. A story is published to the effect that the real name of the man now under arrest is F. M. Deuner; that after the discovery of a shortage in his accounts amounting to between $3,000 and $5,000, he went to Canada, and after the search for him was abandoned, removed to Illinois, married, and, under his assumed name, attempted to live down the memory of his former career. The prisoner is given a good reputation by the railroad company.

BUCK STOUT was hanged at Rockville, Ind., on the 8th, for the murder of Taylor A. Dunbar in November last. The wife of the murdered man witnessed the execution.

A WONDERFUL cave, of unknown proportions, containing a lake and a water-fall one hundred and fifty feet high, has recently been discovered at the base of Look-out Mountain, below Chattanooga.

JAMES MCSTEEN, of Pittsburgh, who crushed his wife's skull with an ax on the night of June 22, 1893, has been sentenced to be hanged on Thursday, October 4 next. He received his death sentence without emotion.

The body of a woman named Andrews, in an advanced stage of decomposition, was found in a room in a tenement house at Minneapolis, Minn., on the 9th, with the head crushed in by a blow from an ax. A family named Moore, having rooms in the same building, are missing, and suspicion points to them.

DURING the last ten years $6,000,000 worth of opium is said to have been smuggled into the port of San Francisco. It is charged that Government officials have been in league with the smugglers.

Two hundred tons of manufactured steel fell from the rack in Hussey, Howe & Co.'s warehouse, Pittsburg, Pa., a few days ago, killing one man and seriously injuring five others. The end was torn from the warehouse, and a railroad car overturned and covered with debris.

JOHN FISHER, aged eighteen, was sailing with two young ladies at Quincy, Mass., a few days since, when a flaw of wind struck the sail and the boom swinging suddenly around Fisher and one of the ladies named Winifred Butler, were swept into the water. Fisher was immediately drowned and Miss Butler died soon after being brought to the shore.

FEARING the introduction of cholera from China and Japan, the San Francisco

Board of Health have adopted a resolution that all Asiatic ports be declared infected, and all vessels arriving be quarantined until a full examination is made.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Board of Aldermen recently passed a resolution prohibiting the Salvation army parading the streets. They disregarded the order on the 9th, and marched through the streets shouting halloo, and singing hymns adapted to popular airs. The police arrested the entire army of Salvationists and lodged them in jail. They were afterward bailed out by friends.

A DEATH has occurred at Ocean Springs, eighty miles from New Orleans, which is thought to have been caused by yellow fever.

WILTON JUNCTION, near Muscatine, Iowa, is much agitated over an alarming fatality, supposed at first to be cholera infantum, but which, though mainly confined to children, has attacked grown persons. There were seven deaths on the 9th, all children excepting one, Mrs. Arnell. Several grown persons are now seriously ill, including Dr. Sherwood, a prominent physician, and there are now, including children, nearly one hundred persons down with the disease. The disease is said to be malignant dysentery where it attacks grown persons.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

The Kentucky State election was held on the 6th. A very light vote was polled throughout the State. The entire Democratic ticket was elected by a majority estimated by a majority between 40,000 and 50,000. The fate of the proposition to call a Constitutional Convention is not yet known, but it is thought to have been defeated.

JAMES McDERMOT was arrested upon his arrival in England for being engaged in a conspiracy to murder officials. He says he will call upon the American Government to protect him.

At Portsmouth, N. H., Mayor John Treat, Democrat, has been re-elected. The Republicans secured a majority of Aldermen and Councilmen.

SOME excitement has been caused in West Virginia by charges made by a correspondent of the Wheeling Intelligencer, writing from Weston concerning the management of the State Hospital for the insane, situated at that place. The charges include specifications of incompetence on the part of the Superintendent, Dr. Bland, carelessness of patients by attendants, and gross immorality among the subordinate officials and patients. The Intelligencer claims that it has evidence in its possession of acts too vile for publication. An investigation is loudly demanded, and will no doubt be ordered.

BERNARD PHILLIPS, a stock broker and prominent politician of Mauch Chunk, Pa., has been arrested, charged with the embezzlement of about $800, entrusted to him by J. C. Rutter, President of the Miners' Bank of Summit Hill. He was formerly recorder of deeds for Carbon County.

The American Rifle Team arrived at New York from London on the 8th. They attribute their defeat to the terrible condition of the weather which prevailed on the last day of the match.

Mrs. FANNY SPRAGUE, mother of the ex-Governor, has accepted the offer of the Union Company, which bought her home-stead, to leave it to her during her life at one dollar per month. She accepts upon the advice of Governor Dutler, her counsel. PRESIDENT ARTHUR was visited at Fort Washakie, on the 9th, by five hundred Shoshone and Arapaho warriors. He made them a little speech, and two of the chiefs replied. A handsome pony was presented to the President for his daughter by Sharp Nose, and other members of the Presidential party received gifts. Then a war dance followed, which afforded much entertainment.

The New Jersey Convention of the National party met on the 9th and adopted a platform expressing opposition to monopolies, and favoring universal suffrage, equal taxation, and the purchase by the Government of the railway and telegraph lines.

MEMBERS of Congress are charged with assisting to lobby through the Texas Pacific Railway charter, for which they were to receive $1,000,000.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

THE people of Matamoros complain to the Department of State, at Washington, that they are suffering serious and needless loss by being quarantined by Louisiana.

The lobbyists who have in charge the extravagant claim of the Creek Indians for $1,900,000 losses sustained during the war, are trying to secure its approval at the Interior Department during Secretary Teller's absence. It is a claim that Congress refused to consider at all.

The instructions sent to Collectors by the Internal Revenue Bureau, in regard to the renumbering of tobacco factories in those districts which have been recently consolidated in order to avoid duplication, has been incorporated in another circular letter regarding distilleries. The older parts of the new districts will be allowed to retain their numbers, and the additions will have to take numbers in regular order, as the Bureau may select.

ALPHA B. BEALL, an employee of the Public Printer, was arrested at Washington on the 7th, upon complaint of Commissioner Dudley, charged with defrauding a widow out of half of a pension claim, collected for the loss of a son in battle, the whole amount being $1,455. The pension case was worked up by Beall and a brother.

THREE-AND-A-HALF per cent. bonds, to the amount of $100,000, have been presented at the Treasury Department for redemption under the 121st call. This call will not mature until November 1, but provision is made for the redemption of any bonds embraced in the call, prior to their maturity upon presentation, with interest to date of redemption. The call is for over $92,000,000. Holders are not generally taking advantage of the privileges of the circular, offering to redeem the bonds before maturity.

S. G. W. BENJAMIN, the first diplomatic representative of the United States to Persia, has written to the State Department that upon his arrival he was extended a brilliant reception by the Shah.

ATTORNEY GENERAL BREWSTER has ruled that the claims of the Status for the enrollment and subsistence of troops during the war can not be paid under the provisions of the act of July, 1861. Their payment will have to be authorized by a special act of Congress.

THE Treasury Department has been notified of efforts to smuggle Chinese across the border from British Columbia into Washington Territory. A dispatch from the Pacific coast says the noise about the smuggling of Chinese is being made in order to divert attention from the smuggling of opium, which is going on on a large scale.

The publication of the names of pensioners will cost the Government $37,000. It will probably result in the detection of several thousand who are receiving pensions fraudulently, but this saving will be offset by a still greater number of claims for increase. Justice, however, will be served.

FOREIGN.

FELICITOS MELIA, a famous bull-fighter, was fatally hurt at a bull-fight in the City of Mexico, on the 6th. He was tossed into the air by a bull, which again caught him on the horns as he fell. The building was crowded at the time, and great excitement prevailed.

The commanders of German men-of-war have been ordered to limit their supplies of American pickled pork for their crews on their passage home. The purpose of the order is to prevent pork left over at the end of the homeward voyage from being handled in German ports.

MICHAEL DAVITT, in a speech in County Clare on the 6th, said the English Government had been reduced to such weakness that they could not protect the life of one of their vilest instruments.

An outbreak among Spanish troops occurred a few days ago in the City of Badajoz, Spain. The garrison of the town, numbering about seven hundred men, pronounced for a republic, the Constitution of 1808, and Ruiz Zovilla for President. Citizens and troops fraternized. Several regiments of soldiers were dispatched from Madrid, and succeeded in quelling the disturbance.

THE National Debt Bill passed the English House of Commons on the 7th. It replaces the terminable annuities expiring in 1885, and in twenty years will cancel £173,000,000 of the National debt. The Irish members were among the opponents of the bill.

It is charged that the outbreak of the military at Badajoz, Spain, was a part of a gigantic stock-jobbing operation, induced by a certain clique which for a long time has been making extraordinary efforts to destroy the improving credit of Spain.

CANON BERNARD is on trial in Brussels for abstracting papers and securities representing several million francs from the Episcopal Palace of the Diocese of Tournay. The Bishop's defense is that he was authorized by the Pope to take such measures as he deemed best to conceal the treasures, and he did not understand that he was only authorized to find a place of concealment in Tournay. The trial is causing much feeling in religious circles.

The revolt in Spain was premature, else it might have attained serious proportions. The insurgents have been scattered in the mountains and martial law declared. The prisoners charged with conspiracy and tried in Liverpool have been found guilty, and all sentenced to penal servitude for life.

ONLY one million of religious dissenters out of fourteen million in Russia were relieved of their religious disabilities by the coronation decree.

LATER NEWS.

MAJOR NICKERSON has again furnished the War Department with his address, which he represents, is still at Philadelphia. By sending in his address each month, he prevents the dropping of his name as a deserter. The War Department officials are confident he is not in Philadelphia. It is more likely he is in Canada.

IRISH Nationalists are believed by the Canadian Government to meditate the destruction of the Welland Canal by the use of explosives. The conspirators are making their headquarters in Chicago. The U. S. Government is reported to have been asked to assist in thwarting the scheme.

THE operators on the Pan-handle road, between Columbus and Pittsburg left their keys at 6 o'clock on the evening of the 10th. The report comes from Chicago that the Baltimore and Ohio Company are ready to treat with the strikers. Jay Gould says former employees of the Western Union would be received by the company, but no communication will be had with the Brotherhood. He says he hopes the boys have come to their senses.

A MOVEMENT is on foot in London for sending two hundred thousand persons to Canada and other British colonies. Ten thousand are to be sent to Canada next spring. Farms will be provided for them by the Government, which will take mortgages upon them as security for payment.

WM. HENRY OSTRANDER was hung in Utica, N. Y., on the 10th, for the murder of his brother, George Lyman Ostrander. He refused spiritual consolation, and was profane on the gallows.

An open rate war has been begun between Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City by the Chicago and Alton and the Illinois Central Railroads. The trunk line arrangement is not likely to be affected.

The August reports of the condition of cotton made to the Department of Agriculture in Washington are less favorable than those of July. In the condition of corn there has been some improvement. Spring wheat is raised at 93, oats at 100, and barley at 95.

The steamer William Lawrence, from Savannah, when off Point Lookout, on the morning of the 10th, collided with the schooner Mariah Lavina. The schooner immediately sunk, carrying down the wife and two children of the captain, and Joseph Levitt, the cook.

The staging on the fourth story of a building being erected on Washington street, Boston, gave way on the 10th, precipitating four masons to the ground. Frank Roberts, the foreman, will probably die, and the other three are seriously injured.

From official reports received in Washington it is gathered that the English Government is in much greater alarm over the threatened cholera epidemic than has been represented by dispatches from London.

THE COMMONWEALTH.

HENRY TABLING, a wealthy German citizen of Breckinridge County, while hauling a load of staves a few days ago, was thrown from the wagon, and, being caught between the axle and a stump, was crushed to death instantly. He leaves a wife and several children.

MARJOR FINDREY, of Marshall County, mysteriously disappeared from his home a few days since. It is feared he committed suicide, as he took his razor from home when he left, to be gone a few moments. In the Livingston County Circuit Court a few days since, Lewis Moxly, colored, charged with murder, was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary. Eleven of the jury were for hanging him.

CAPTAIN J. LEW BELLER, once a prominent steamboat commander, but recently general bookkeeper of the Western Cement Association, at Louisville, was discovered to be totally insane the other day, and sent to private quarters at the City Hospital. He is a gentleman in good standing as a Knight Templar, but a bachelor. It is supposed that he lost or gave away $50 before it was ascertained that his mind was impaired.

MR. DIONIS KAELEN, of Louisville, filed suit for divorce from his recent Caroline a few days ago, and alleges drunkenness on her part as his cause. He says further, that she has skipped the city and taken with her to Ohio over $50 of his hard earnings. He asks for the entire retention of the property upon which he resides, and for all other proper relief.

GVERNOR BLACKBURN, on the 3d, issued a full pardon to Dave Ferguson, the defaulting cashier of Louisville. Ferguson's deficit was $200,000, and a pardon of the chief conspirator in the embezzlement has caused great indignation in Louisville. He has been in the penitentiary since February.

The State Auditor writes Mr. S. K. Chevis, of Lexington, that he will get his money as soon as the condition of the Treasury will permit. The fact of the railroads refusing to pay their taxes has left the Treasury in a depleted condition.

A BOURN County man has a game rooster which has won four battles and $125 in his life, and besides raised four broods of chickens hovering over them like a hen.

AN Ohio butcher named Benjamin Clifford was admitted into the City Hospital at Louisville, a few days ago, with both legs putrified from erysipelas, and their amputation was necessary to save him.

AT Boston's store, Anderson County, a few evenings ago, a quarrel about some whisky occurred between Billy Boston and a man named Riley, and blows were exchanged. Later on the difficulty was renewed, and when Riley was trying to explain away the unpleasantness Boston leveled his gun and blazed away, killing Riley instantly. At last accounts no attempt to arrest Boston had been made.

AT Eminence, Morgan County, a few mornings ago, Clarence Demaral, a boy aged about fifteen years, was severely burned about the face, neck and breast, the result of an experiment with a match and a package of gunpowder that he held in his hand.

THE name of the postoffice at Blythe, Marshall County, has been changed to Little Cypress.

A MAN named Hodge shot at Jos. Vanderve and fatally wounded a man named Thorp, ten miles from Elizabethtown, Hardin County, a few evenings ago. Hodge was arrested and taken to jail.

A FEW days ago incendiaries set fire to a barn in Woodford County, owned by Thomas S. Williams, destroying it completely. The barn contained a quantity of provender and some agricultural implements, entailing, with the building, a loss of $500. Insurance $200.

V. T. CHAMBERS died at Covington on the 7th of paralysis, aged fifty-two years. He was born in Boone County, and was a son of Dr. Chambers, who was for several years a Representative of that county in the State Legislature.

A FEW days since while a circus was performing at Mt. Sterling, Montgomery County, three confidence men roped in Henry Smith, an old and wealthy farmer of that county, and swindled him out of $2,500. He threatened to have them arrested and they gave him $1,500 back. A few days afterward, Mr. Smith's son went to Carlisle, where the circus was performing, and identified one Pulker as one of the men. Marshal Sammons, of that place, arrested Pulker and brought him to Mt. Sterling. An investigation will be had.

Weekly Review of the Louisville Leaf Tobacco Market.

The receipts were 740 hogheads, against 910 last week, and 670 in the corresponding week of 1892. The market has displayed a healthy activity throughout the week, and values have inclined to sellers' favor. The cessation of free deliveries from the country has been unusually abrupt, and with receipts growing smaller by degrees and continually less, estimates of the country reserve have been undergoing revision. The actual supply has not equalled the wants of the home and foreign trade, and buyers have competed with each other with more spirit. It is considered probable that this tendency will continue for the present, and that the surplus of the last crop will be very small. Bury tobacco has not developed material changes in price, but all grades have sold more or less fuller. Dark and heavy styles of all sound descriptions have been very active, and, with occasional irregularities, have tended up. Clarke leaf and lugs have sold at better prices. Rebanders have been competing more actively for dark and heavy leaf of most grades with regular buyers and other shippers, and limits are 3/16c. higher than a fortnight ago. The crop appears to be doing very well, with a few local exceptions. We quote new crop tobaccos as follows:

The Importance of Good Water For Cattle.

In purchasing a pasture the value of a never failing supply of good water should not be overlooked, for good feed with bad water is not much better than poor feed with good water. A small pond fed by surface drainage is always muddy and otherwise very impure, besides being often low if not entirely dried up. A good spring on a side hill makes a very desirable drinking place for both man and beast; but the best water is a constantly running stream of good water; this cannot always be had; but when a pasture is found that has such a stream running through it it adds very much to its value, more than either buyers or sellers usually consider it; therefore when one is in search of a pasture and finds one with a good stream running through it, he will be very likely to be able to buy it for less than its real value. In such pastures the cattle will not only have a constant supply of good water but the land on either side of the stream will furnish feed that is always acceptable during the dry portion of the season. The owner of such pastures is saved the trouble of looking after the supply of water and the labor of cleaning out the pond several times in the season, as he is often compelled to keep up the supply. When cows are obliged to depend on a surface pond for water they often get a short supply, and the owner does not know it until the cows fail to give the usual supply of milk.

Milk cows are often compelled to drink water made thick with mud and slime, because their owners fail to give the subject of water their attention which its importance demands. Farmers should not forget to make frequent examinations of the water supply for their cattle.

In localities where there are hills one or two hundred feet high, if there are not natural springs that come to the surface, it is in most places so situated very easy to dig a well half way up the hill, and put a pipe in it to lead the water into a tank located down the hill, where it will be below the bottom of the well. In this way a constant supply of pure water can be obtained at a trifling expense, except the labor. On level land this cannot be done, but where a herd of fifteen or twenty cows are kept it will pay to dig a well and pump the water up with a good windmill. The advantages thus gained over poor water would soon pay for both the well and mill.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Mulching Winter Wheat.

The Mulcher (N. Y.) Farmers' Club discussed the subject of mulching winter wheat a few weeks since. One member said he had found a thin mulch of buckwheat straw to give a good result. Another said the only object was protection from the rigors of winter, and that it was to be performed any time before the ground freezes, or even after, but not before the plants had made some growth. The President thought the straw mulch more even to the grass seedling than to the wheat. He had found it very useful for winter rye. In many localities the past winter the absence of snow caused much exposure of wheat to the sweep of winter winds, and the extensive winter-killing was owing to this cause. A striking case of the advantage of straw mulching occurred some years ago under our observation. The kind sown was the old Mediterranean, which was not so hardy as some other sorts. As there was a surplus of straw on the farm, the tenant was directed to spread it thinly over the wheat field as soon as the ground was frozen hard enough to bear the team and wagon, so as not to cut in and injure the crop. He applied one load, but, having no confidence in its utility, did not continue the mulching. The straw was spread just thick enough partly, not wholly, to hide the wheat from view. A slight subsequent thaw caused it to adhere to the soil. The winter had but little snow, and the wheat crop generally was badly exposed and greatly injured. But where the load of straw was spread and the thin mulching given, the protection was so efficient that it was quite uninjured, and it yielded by estimate at the rate of twenty bushels per acre. On the exposed part the winter killing was so severe that an average of no more than five bushels per acre was obtained, and some of it was not worth cutting. This was an extreme case, and not likely to occur to such an extent again; but when the straw is on hand the benefit of spreading it in any case would doubtless pay for the labor, and much further advantage may follow in open winters.

Grab Worms and the Crops.

The white grub worm seems to be growing more and more disastrous to the proving crops from year to year, and its depredations are far more disastrous than the farmers themselves are cognizant of. In many parts of the country the corn crop suffers enormously each year and at an increasing ratio, and while the results are more apparent in the small grains, and especially the grass crop, suffer greatly. The presence of these quiet subterranean workers is not apparent to the casual observer, and the farmers generally look for some other cause to explain the dwarfed condition of crops upon lands with all the conditions of soil, culture and climate favorable to produce best results, yet which fail on account of this pest. There is hardly a field anywhere which is entirely free from them.

Any one able to offer a successful plan, for the eradication of this disastrous depredator will prove himself a benefactor to the agriculturist. Hogs will root them up; but even if it were possible for them to perform the work on a farm, the "cure" oftener than otherwise, proves more disastrous than the "disease." When barnyard manure is plentiful enough to greatly enrich the land, that will furnish food for the grubs instead of the roots of the crops. An abundant application of salt would not doubt be effectual, but would at the same time be the destruction of the crops.—Western Rural.

Value of Ewe Lambs.

The tempting prices obtainable for really choicest early lambs have yearly proved a greater temptation than many owners could resist, and the result has been that quite a number of ewe lambs are sacrificed to the shambles to the serious detriment of flock improvement as well as ultimate loss to owners of the country. As in a majority of instances the sires of these lambs are better-bred animals than are the dams their preservation would prove a long stride in the direction of flock improvement, and if the owner feels compelled to restrict the number of animals handled, a rigid culling from the older ewes and filling their places from the choicest ewe lambs should be a policy from which no temporary demand for "lamb and spring peas" tempts him to deviate. So long as the ewe lamb is a superior bred animal to its mother (and the breeder who does not have it so has mistaken his calling), it will prove the more profitable to retain in his flock. Not only does such retention insure the comingling of fresh and better blood, but it reduces the expense and dangers of management by the omission of animals which have passed their prime, and filling their places with those that, in the nature of things, will grow better instead of worse, for at least several succeeding years. Those who have not carefully compared results fail to appreciate how materially the loss from "natural causes" may be reduced by a careful observance of the policy of retaining—either by increase in numbers or maintaining any desired number—young and growing animals, and rigidly excluding such as have passed the meridian of life and vigorous improvement. The advantage in this respect alone is sufficient to offset any temporary top price for ewe lambs, and when to it is added the tide of improved blood that comes on through young animals, every prudent flock manager will find warrant for resisting the most tempting offers for young females.—Farmers' Advocate.

Should Women Ride Like Men?

The above subject having created considerable discussion in the English newspapers, the Lancet (London) now takes it up and concludes that it would be as well to leave the determination of the question to those whom it principally concerns. We fancy they have no wish to change the custom. As a matter of fact, although it may not appear to be the case, the writer continues, the seat which a woman enjoys on a side-saddle is fully as secure, and not as irksome, as that which a man has to maintain, unless he simply balances himself and does not gripe the sides of his horse either with the knee or the side of the leg. It is curious to note the different ways in which the legs of men who pass much time in the saddle are affected. Riding with a straight leg and a long stirrup up, most invariably produces what are popularly called knock-knees. Nearly all the soldiers of the British army suffer from this deformity, as any one who will take the trouble to notice while walking may satisfy himself. On the other hand, riding with a short stirrup produces bowed-legs. Jockeys, groomers, and most hunting men who ride very frequently are more or less bowed-legged. The long stirrup rider grips the horse with his knee, while the short stirrup rider grips him with the inner part of the leg below the knee. This difference of action explains the difference of result. No deformity necessarily follows the use of the side saddle if the precaution be taken with growing girls to change sides on alternate days, riding on the left side one day and on the right the next. The purpose of this change is to counteract the tendency to lean over to the side opposite that on which the leg is swung.

That's Me!

About two hours ago a cadaverous wooden-headed might have been seen gawping at the river from the foot of Randolph street. He didn't know enough to chew gum. That was me.

"You, eh? Well?" "Well, he gawped, and gawped, and he knew he had $20 in his pocket, and he chuckled and tickled and said he had come to town to look around and see things and go home and be a lion. That was me again."

"I see."

"He jest fairly ached to have a bunco man come up and slap him on the back and call him Josephus Basswood, and ask how pa and ma and the children all got along. He tickled to have a three-dollar monte man tickle him under the chin and call him a red fox from Iowa County, and open up his little game. His bones all screamed out for the man with the gold pieces, and he drew down his left eye as he thought how they'd take him for a hay-stack and get sold. He was an infernal idiot. That's me!"

"Yes."

"Well, as he was standing there and feeling how sharp and cute and cunning he was, up comes a man who was breathing hard and looking sear, and says he to me in a whisper: 'You look like a friend to the unfortunate. I can see by the cut of your face that I can trust you. I have wounded a man who insulted my wife, and I must skip to Canada to escape arrest. I have no money, but here is a hundred dollar bond. Lend me $20 and keep the bond until I see you.' That is what he said. The double-jointed idiot from the country took it all in like a boy gulping down sulphur and lasses. That's me some more."

"I'm listening."

"The greenhorn was flattered and tickled. He saw a chance to make $80 on that bond. The bomb-proof, back-acting, copper-riveted agricultural peach-blossom figured as how he'd cash that bond to-morrow and skip, and as how the man in haste to reach Canada would never find him, and as how them $100 would buy a yoke of oxen, and so he passed over his greenbacks and pocketed the bond. Yes, the bald-headed, cross-eyed, bow-legged turnip patch did that very thing. That's me to a dot!"

"Is it possible?"

"And here's the bond—worthless! And here I am—strapped! And somewhere up town is the sharper—tickled half to death at the way he played me! Say?"

"Yes."

"Hunt up a born fool, catch a crank, scare up a dude, bring in an old man with a third wife, and boil 'em all down and bag up the bones and call the thing Josephus Basswood. That's me!"

And he walked off to find the plank road running West, waving the bogus bond with one hand and helping to kick himself with the other. Half a block away he halted and looking back, and seeing the officer still there he gave himself three kicks and shouted out in a lonesome voice:

"Don't you forget it—that's me!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Art of Chiromancy.

Chiromancy is one of the many superstitions which grew out of the true science of astrology. The authors of the system placed the fingers under the rule of the planets. The hand itself is divided into several particular forms, viz.: First, the hand elementary, or hand with a large palm; second, the hand artistic or conical; third, the hand useful or square hand; fourth, the philosophical or knotted hand; fifth, the psychological or pointed hand; seventh, the mixed hand. The thumb is very important, and is said to be the test between the wise man and the fool. According to the length and thickness of the line at the root of the thumb is the intensity of the reasoning will to be judged. Idiots turn the thumbs in and hide them under the fingers. A small thumb indicates irresolution and vacillation in such matters as result from reason, and not from sentiment or instinct. People with small thumbs are governed by the heart, while those with large thumbs from the head.

Persons whose fingers tend to bend backward through suppleness and elasticity are sagacious, curious, and possess address. Those whose fingers, badly placed, all differ in form toward the exterior phalange, are wanting in mental stamina. They will be foolish and miserable. The hand that, held up to the light, shows neither light nor transparency, and fleshy fingers kept in exact parallelism—it is a sign of avarice. Short and thick fingers denote cruelty. Fingers long and straggling belong to cheats, humbugs and sharpers. Smooth, transparent fingers are the characteristics of those who are inquisitive and indiscreet.

Talkativeness and levity are indicated by smooth and conical fingers, while strong and knotted fingers show prudence and capacity. People who in walking move their arms and hold their hands firm are prompt and impetuous. The nails are also supposed to be indicative of character to a considerable extent. The short, squat nails show low habits and animal tastes; those pointed and slender, refinement; those broad and thick, decision and firmness. Small white spots under the nails indicate the approach of good luck or the fulfillment of wishes, and either happens when the spot reaches the top. A black spot in the same place is a very bad sign and foreshadows misfortune.

Chiromancy has the merit of being at least more rational than other kinds of fortune telling, and no doubt it is possible to be sometimes successful in reading the future by this method. The same may be said as regards cards and dice, all of them depending upon chance for the occasional happiness of the hit.

The Blunderberrys at Breakfast.

"Mrs. Blunderberry," said the master of the house, have you seen the newspaper this morning?"

"I have, sir," he looked underneath the dish cover with a scowl at the bacon, as if he suspected that usually harmless comestible of having secreted his morning journal.

Mrs. Blunderberry dropped two silent tears into the breakfast cup and turned her head away without reply.

"Am I to understand, Mrs. Blunderberry," he continued, raising his voice; "am I to understand that you have used the Daily Starler as a dress improver? Do you wish me to believe that you propose to curl your fringe with the largest circulation in the world? Possibly you intend to contribute twenty columns of news and forty of advertisements to the Society for the Diffusion of Useful Knowledge; but I—I—your husband, your lord and master, demand that print. Produce it, Mrs. Blunderberry, or—"

And he seized an electro-plated knife with which it was just possible to carve butter on a hot day, and flourished it menacingly.

"You shan't have it," cried Mrs. Blunderberry defiantly, snatching it from beneath the chair where she had concealed it and holding it behind her back. Then, with all the rapid variation of woman's mood, the tears coursed down her cheeks as she pleaded piteously: "Don't ask me for it, Solomon—don't. Take my pearl brooch with dear grandma's hair in it—take my new silk skirt, which only came home last night, and which I have never—ever worn, but, Solomon, as you love me, do not read the newspaper to-day."

"What all the Starler this morning?" roared Mr. Blunderberry. "What corruption of male morals has Fleet Street been attempting since I went to bed? What profanity has been turned loose in leaded type to startle the propriety of a Blunderberry? Speak, madam—speak—or I will purchase a thousand copies of this day's Starler and paper every room in the house with them."

"O, Solomon! the Lor—Lor—Lor—Lords have made a law—law that you are to marry your wife's deceased sister, and—and—you've got to do it." As Mrs. Blunderberry spoke these words she choked with emotion and misdirected the tea, then patted herself on the back with a spoon till she recovered.

"Is that so?" yelled Mr. Blunderberry, dropping a piece of bacon into his cup, and flourishing the vacant fork like a General leading his troops to victory. "Is that so? Then bring along the coffins of all your dead and gone relatives; show me the tombstones of all my future wives; and let history record the name of Blunderberry as the Mormon among the mummies."

"Sol—sol—omom, how can you joke on such a subject? O! to think that I should live to see the day when my husband should stand before the altar with his deceased wife's sister."

"Now you've got it! That's it at last!" replied Mr. Blunderberry, with mock seriousness. "I'll invite you to the wedding, Mrs. Blunderberry; I'll present you with a piece of the cake. Mrs. B., a lovely bit of cake with a little sugar cupid atop; I'll fit you with a wreath of flowers, and you shall give me away; then you will become your sister's stepwife, and I shall be your half brother-in-law—see?"

"But," cried Mrs. Blunderberry, rising from her seat, a bright gleam of hope irradiating her countenance, "but—I haven't got a sister!"

Mrs. Blunderberry, the peers of England, in council assembled, are not to be put off with subterfuge. You ought to have one. Procure me the necessary young person without delay; bring forth the fiery, untamed sister, or dread the vengeance of the outraged majesty of the law. The petty detail that there was but one of you will never serve your turn in the presence of the Lord Chancellor."

"But," said Mrs. Blunderberry, reflectively, "I suppose the same law applies to a deceased husband's brother; and you have a brother, Solomon, and very nice-looking he is—quite different to you—and ever so much younger; and I always have liked him very much, and I wish—"

"What nonsense you talk!" exclaimed Mr. Blunderberry, peevishly. "I think I will walk into the city this morning," and he left the house fully ten minutes before his usual time.—London Fam.

A Really New Fish Story.

Four ladies, a nurse and a ten-year-old urchin in blue petticoats, leaned eagerly over the gunwale in a boat off Atlantic City intent on capture. Suddenly the young lady of the party gave vent to a wild scream, and began wringing her hands over the side of the boat.

The gulls continued to snap the unwary minnows from the reedy marge, the voracious schools of weakfish continued to take the hook as fast as it was lowered, yet heaven and earth were duly called to witness the maiden's distress. Playing the line from the tips of her fingers a hungry weakfish had captured the hook just as a diamond ring slipped from her dainty fingers down the cord.

Weakfish have a peculiar practice, when the hook has stuck, of opening their mouths and shaking their heads. The fish in question opportunely opened his mouth, received the ring on top of the hook and was at once pulled to the surface and to the young lady's rescue.

—Few stories can be sadder than that of the man John Meeker, and few stories tell the desolation of wrong-doing more poignantly. He was sent to Sing Sing for the murder of Felix McCarthy, but there were circumstances which led Governor Cleveland to pardon him last week. When the man gained his freedom he did not know how to use it. He wandered about in a dreary way. There was literally nothing in life to live for, and he begged to be taken back to prison. This man's wife lost her mind when he was committed, and wandered away from the asylum and has not since been heard of. There were three children, and some benevolent people in Newburg have sent them to the Home of the Friendless. A more complete picture of ruin it would be hard to imagine.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

The Vain Old Woman.

There was once an old woman so very poor that she had no house, but lived in a hollow tree. One day she found a piece of money lying in the road. Full of joy at her good fortune, she began to consider what she should buy with the money.

"If I get anything to eat," she said to herself, "I shall quickly devour it, and that will be the end of the matter. That will not do at all. If I buy clothes, people will call me proud, and that will not do; and besides I have no closet to keep them in. Ah! I have it! I will buy a broom, and then everybody that I meet will think I have a house. A broom is the thing. A broom it shall be."

So the old woman went into the next town and bought a broom. She walked proudly along with her purchase, looking about her all the time to see if people noticed her and looked envious, thinking of her house. But as no one seemed to remark her, she began to be discontented with her bargain.

"Does everybody have a house except me?" she said to herself, crossly. "I wish I had bought something else!"

Presently she met a man carrying a small jar of oil.

"This is what I want," exclaimed the old woman; "anybody can have a house, but only the truly rich can have oil to light it with."

So she bartered her broom for the oil and went on more proudly than ever holding the jar so that all could see it. Still she failed to attract any particular notice, and she was once more discontented. As she went moodily along she met a woman with a bunch of large flowers.

"Here, at last, I have what I want," the old woman thought. "If I can get these, all that see me will believe I am just getting my house ready for a brilliant party. Then they'll be jealous, I hope."

So when the woman with the flowers came close to her she offered her oil for them, and the other gladly made the change.

"Now I am indeed fortunate!" she said to herself. "Now I am somebody!" But still she failed to attract attention, and, happening to glance at her old dress, she suddenly occurred to her that she might be mistaken for a servant carrying flowers for her master. She was so much vexed by the thought that she flung the bouquet into the ditch, and went home to her tree empty-handed.

"Now I am well rid of it all," she said to herself.—Adapted from the German, by Arlo Bates, in St. Nicholas.

Looking Out the Back Door.

A friend of ours wished to hire a farmer for a wealthy neighbor, and we mentioned one who was wanting an engagement. Knowing that our friend had been to see this farmer, we asked the result. His reply was, in substance: "Yes, I went there; I went around to the back door and came away, knowing that he would not suit." The front door of many farmhouses are rarely opened. The back door is in constant use. One need not go far in any locality to find the outlet of the kitchen sink ending in a sort of a ditch, which is supposed to carry off the waste water, but which only allows it to soak away and saturate the ground near the back of the house. The seldom used front door is opened when a small coffin is to be taken out. The minister speaks of "the mysterious dispensations of Providence." They are not at all mysterious. Bad sink drains at the back of the house are sure to bring typhoid fever and other sickness. Let the back door surroundings be looked to. If nothing better can be done, carry the kitchen wastes to a cesspool a distance from the house, where they can soak away far below the surface. Prohibit all throwing out of slops at the back door. The ground soon becomes charged with matters that ferment and breed disease. Where pigs are kept, and that includes every farm, there should be a pail to receive all animal and vegetable matters and daily emptied. Nothing of the kind should be thrown out at the back of the house. Where there is such a disease-breeding sink spout as we have mentioned, let provisions be at once made to carry off the water to a cesspool, and cover up the saturated ground with dry earth. Let the back yard to the house always be kept scrupulously neat.—American Agriculturist.

Hard Lumps in Breast.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I wrote you some time ago that I thought I had a cancer. There was a large lump in my breast as large as a walnut, and had been there four months. I commenced taking your "Golden Medical Discovery," "Favorite Prescription" and "Pelllets" in June, and the lump is gone. Yours gratefully, Mrs. R. R. CLARK, Irvington, Mich.

FOR PRESIDENT,

That uncrowned King of every Democratic heart,

SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Mr. Tilden's companion in Victory and in Humiliation,

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Richard Reid, of Mt. Sterling, is a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, to succeed Judge Hargis—subject to the action of the Democracy of the First Appellate District.

At Lexington $10,000 has been subscribed to induce the B. & O. to extend its telegraph line to that place from Louisville.

It may not be generally known, yet it is a fact, that there will be National Convention held at the Yellowstone Park this week.

The estimated amount of the pension payment this year is $100,000,000. Nearly one-half the entire expenses of the Government.

At a reunion of Confederate soldiers at Raleigh, N. C. Friday, 7,000 were present including Gov. Jarvis. An address was delivered by Senator Ransom.

After October next the three-cent stamp will not be issued, but it will be received for postage until the outstanding supplies are exhausted.

The Catlettsburg Democrat says that the Democrats make a gain of 2,550 votes in Carter, Boyd, Greenup and Lawrence counties over the last election.

One thousand and nineteen drinking saloons in seventy of the eighty-eight counties of Ohio have been closed through failure to comply with the terms of the Scott law.

Under favorable circumstances Tal image can attract three thousand persons to a camp-meeting, but John L. Sullivan attracted fifteen thousand, in Boston, to the opening of his new saloon.

Marion county, Proctor Knott's home, gave him 650 majority—nearly two hundred over that of four years ago. This is a high compliment in a county where party lines are always tightly drawn.

The Presidential party rested at Wyoming, Friday, after a rough ride over a rocky mountain road. President Arthur used his Kentucky reel for the first time yesterday morning, and landed a trout.

Talk about the terrors of a pitched battle as you may, but they do not compare with the terrors of a falling circus tent filled with women and children. The scene actually beggars description.

SENATOR MORGAN says Bayard is a good man and will be President one of these days. Our Uncle Sammy Tilden observed in 1880 that Bayard was a fine man and would be President in the "sweet by and by." This is poor comfort to Mr. Bayard.

When a poor miserable tramp divides his last half-dollar with a fellow-sojourner in this vale of tears, it is an act of greater self-sacrifice and more genuine generosity than when a millionaire donates a few thousand dollars to a hospital. And the tramp does not get his name in the papers, either.

Since that little cyclone struck O'Brien's circus here Friday and knocked the performance into "pi" and the vast audience into one of old Noah's floods, a few of our fellow citizen's have lifted their right hands towards high Heaven and made solemn promises—to be broken when the next circus comes.

No monopoly is so soulless and so powerful as government monopoly and the people should not forget the fact. When the government takes control of the telegraph, the railroad and the school it will be the work of a few years, more to establish a censorship of the press—and the work of despotism will be complete.

More than two hundred colored men, most of them railroad hands from Virginia, voted the Democratic ticket in Clark county last Monday or a least a portion of the ticket. They got from a dollar to two dollars and a half each. A great many of the other colored men there were mad enough to bulldoze somebody, but it was only because they got in too late to get any of the chicken pie.—[Lexington Press.

The strangest thing about the scheme of London speculators to gull the English public in regard to the payment of Confederate bonds is that the London Times seems to countenance the fraud. If there's a man on the American continent who believes that the Southern States will ever redeem or compromise a payment on those bonds, he ought to be at once put in the lunatic asylum. They'll never be worth a nickel except as relics of the Lost Cause.

The Cincinnati News-Journal has been sued for $10,000 for libel.

Knott ran ahead of his ticket in Louisville. Ashbury, col'd, ran behind his ticket 210 votes.

M. V. PRATHER, of Cynthia, says that he's going to be re-elected Clerk of the Senate, just as easy!

Two more weeks and dog days will be over. The chances are that lots of dogs will go without a day.

The Ford brothers talk too much. There is a rapidly increasing regret that they were not hanged.

COLORFUL people gather in swarms at the Kentucky railway stations go by, and snuff the air with delight.

HENRY WARD BEECHER says he don't believe in the story of the fall of Adam. Henry is growing skeptical in his old age.

We have been assured, confidentially, that the President's tour is really a political mission. He is after the Indian vote.

The town without the watering cart of charity is the place where people throw the dust of gossip in the eyes their neighbors.

The young man who got mad and tore up a poll book in Owen county, has been held over in the sum of $500 to face the music.

The taxable valuation of the horses in the various precincts in Mason county, outside of Maysville is, $196,000. The mules are valued at $35,155.

NEAL's trial has been postponed at Grayson, until the next term of Court, on account of absent witnesses. The laws delays again maketh more cussing.

A GEORGIA man has raised a peach that weighs an even pound. He picked off all the blossoms on the except a few, in order to obtain large peaches, and a one-pound peach is the result.

A TEXAS hotel-keeper promptly shot and killed a guest who complained of the size of his bill. The sign outside the house no doubt still swings the inscription, "Entertainment for Man and Beast."

The present season is at its loveliest. The watering-places are in full blast and flirtations booming. Fashion is happy, and even poverty lifts its pinched and faded face in silent gratitude for the beauties of nature.

The Republicans of Kentucky, having met with slight reverses at home recently, are now turning their attention to the nation. Kentucky Republicans are never cast down. They are used to defeat. They have been there and stayed all night.—[Cin. Enquirer.

The next General Assembly of Kentucky will be made up as follows: Senate—Thirty-three Democrats, five Republicans. House—Eighty-six Democrats, eleven Republicans, two Independents, and a tie in Hancock county between Madden (Dem.) and Smith (Ind.) to be decided.

The Louisville Post is fighting for the Exposition gates to be opened on Sunday, for the benefit of the poor working classes. The opening on Sunday would be a good thing probably for the poor, but the Pharisees who sin all the week and sleep Sundays will make vigorous kick, against the Sunday's opening.

DANIEL SWIGERT, of the Emendorf Stud Farm, near Lexington, has purchased Prince Charlie, one the most famous racing stallions in England. When only two years old Prince Charlie won two out of five races. In his third year, he won three out of five races. As a four-year-old, he started in nine races, and won every one them.

Confederate Reunion.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ORPHAN BRIGADE: COMRADES—The next reunion of our Brigade will be held at Lexington, Ky., Sept. 3, 1888. The interest manifested in our last meeting at Blue Lick Springs is a guarantee that the coming one will be a splendid success. Lexington is very accessible, and containing among other objects of tender regard to Kentuckians, the graves of Breckinridge and Hanson. It will be a fitting thing after the hearty greeting to visit those sacred spots and once more do homage to their memory. The First Kentucky Brigade, consisting of the Second, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Ninth Kentucky, and the Forty-first Alabama Regiments of Infantry, will thus meet in grand reunion. Brief addresses will probably be made by some of our comrades. We are endeavoring to have a number of the Forty-first Alabama present. All Confederate soldiers of Kentucky, and visiting soldiers of all arms and armies, are cordially invited to meet with us. Please inform our comrades. HERVEY McDOWELL, JNO. H. WELLER, Sec'y. Ch'm'n.

MILLERSBURG.

Geo. Boulden came over from Flat Rock, Tenn., Saturday.

Miss Annie Tom Miller will visit Miss Long, of Georgetown, this week.

Miss Allie Miller has returned home from a protracted visit to Versailles.

Miss Della McClintock and Miss Lizzie Miller have returned from Chataqua, N. Y.

A. McClintock & Son bought last week 42 Alderney's from Harry Frisbie, of Cynthia, for $10,250.

There are a few old women here who delight to abuse the News at scandal parties, who would die if they missed reading a copy.

Joe McClelland, Jr. showed horse stock six times and took three blue and two red ribbons at the Sharpsburg fair; last week.

Rowdism reigns supreme, and the pistol-shooting festivities are still kept up. Millersburg is a thoroughly bulldozed town.

Miss Mollie Nesbitt got baptised in the circus and lost her bustle in the grand stampede at Paris, Friday. And so did Miss Naomi Miller.

W. D. Landreth, winner of the Blackburn Prize Medal at the State College, sold seventy-five copies of a Pictorial Bible here during the last ten days.

The ladies of the Christian Church will give a moonlight fete in the yard of Mrs. Thos. Savage, Thursday night, for the purpose of putting a new shingle roof on their church.

John Hamilton had five sows to have 52 pigs in five days, 48 of which are living and are stout and healthy. One of them had 16, and 15 are living. He attributes this wonderful progenic freak to the drouth and the scarcity of corn.

Some unparalleled and heartless liar who preceded the train from Paris, Friday evening, reported that 200 persons had been killed and wounded by the falling of the circus tents at Paris, and persons here who had friends there were nearly frantic with alarm.

Abraham Barton, one of our respected old citizens, did Sunday afternoon at 4 p. m., at the residence of Thomas Fisher, his son-in-law, near Ruddles Mills, and was buried here yesterday afternoon, with Eld J. S. Sweeney, officiating at the funeral services. Mr. Barton's health had been on the rapid decline for several months past, and his death had been looked for by his neighbors for two weeks past.

PUBLIC SALE

LAND, STOCK & CROP.

On Thursday, September 13th,

I WILL sell at public sale, on the premises near Shawhan's station, Bourbon county, all of my real estate and personal property, as follows:

470 ACRES OF LAND,

which can be divided into tracts as follows: 380 acres lying together, can be sold into two tracts: 200 acres in one tract; 180 acres containing a GRIST MILL, DISTILLERY and comfortable dwelling; 34 acres with no improvements, and 44 acres lying in the edge of Harrison county on a pike from Paris to Lairs Station, with moderate improvements. There is a good turnpike running through the main body of the lands from Shawhan's Station to the Mt. Carmel pike where it intersects the Paris & Cynthia pike. The body of land lies well, is highly productive, well watered, and well sustained the wide-spread reputation of old Bourbon from the agricultural as well as the alcoholic standpoint.

—NINE HEAD OF MULES,

A lot of brood mares and colts, cows, calves and yearling cattle, 40 sheep and 40 hogs; also my FARMING IMPLEMENTS, consisting of a self-binding reaper, three wagons and gearing, horse-cart; plows, farm tools, crops, &c., &c.

Terms made known on day of sale.

Sale will commence at 10 a. m., sharp.

P. S.—I will also sell at public sale at the same time, 200 barrels of whiskey of the crop of '81, '82 and '83.

SUFFER

no longer from Dyspepsia, indigestion, want of Appetite, loss of Strength, lack of Energy, Malaria, Intermittent Fevers, &c. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS never fails to cure all these diseases.

Boston, November 26, 1887.
BROWN CHEMICAL CO.
Gentlemen:—For years I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and could get no relief (having tried everything which was recommended) until, acting on the advice of a friend, who had been benefited by Brown's Iron Bitters, I tried a bottle, with most surprising results. Previous to taking Brown's Iron Bitters, everything I ate distressed me, and I suffered greatly from a burning sensation in the stomach, which was unbearable. Since taking Brown's Iron Bitters, all my troubles are at an end. Can eat any time without any disagreeable results. I am practically another person. Mrs. W. J. FAYES, 30 Maverick St., E. Boston.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS acts like a charm on the digestive organs, removing all dyspeptic symptoms, such as tasting the food, Belching, Heat in the Stomach, Heartburn, etc. The only Iron Preparation that will not blacken the teeth or give headache.

Sold by all Druggists.

Brown Chemical Co.
Baltimore, Md.

See that all Iron Bitters are made by Brown Chemical Co., Baltimore, and have crossed red lines and trade-mark on wrapper.
